Ryan Herbold

Ryan is one of the most sought after freelance violinists and choral tenors in the Edmonton area.

He started studying violin at the age of five. After competing in many regional festivals and competitions in Western Canada, Ryan joined the Department of Music at the University of Alberta, completing undergraduate music and education degrees in 2008.

Ryan currently teaches music full time at a junior high school in St. Albert. He is also the current concertmaster of the John Cameron Entertainment orchestra (Edmonton Singing Christmas Tree) and sings professionally with a number of different local choirs.

Ryan joined the local group "Stringbeans" as first violinist in 2009 and is looking forward to future projects and endeavours with them. In his spare time, Ryan enjoys time with his family and friends and being outdoors.
